LOSS OF $236,000 IS ADMITTED BY MRS. A. P. MASON

Larchmont Resident Says That She Regrets Heirloom Jewels Which Vanished on Train Worse Than the Money.

Mrs. Arthur P. Mason, of Larchmont, is the woman who on Monday last lost a tin box containing 196 $1,000 bills and jewelry valued at $40,000 while journeying to New York on the local New York, New Haven and Hartford train from her home.

Mrs. Mason made this admission despite the advice of her lawyer, Benjamin F. Norris, of Brooklyn, who has tried to keep secret the name

Mrs. Mason was with her husband when she reluctantly told about the loss of the treasure box. She refused to go into details of the trip to New York when she carried the tin box and a suit case. She placed the box on the seat beside her while the suit case rested at her feet.
